WORK OF THE SILVER CONVENTION.

The Sacramento Bee remarks:

If the Silver Convention shall result in directing public attention to the important subject that it considered, its labors will have accomplished a direct good. It is impossible that the subject can be long considered by the people without compelling Congress to supply a remedy for the existing condition of financial affairs. It is not necessary to accept Tom Fitch's eloquent but wild and gloomy presentation of the contest between Wall street and the balance of the country in order to appreciate the necessity for a return to legislation for the benefit of the people. While new land is coming under cultivation, new factories building, and production actually exceeding consumption, the people are less able to buy, because gold, the solitary standard of our currency, is too valuable under the contraction scheme. It makes no difference to the toiler that a gold dollar will buy twice as much as it used to if he has to work twice as long to earn the dollar. Yet that is the tendency of the contraction policy. The demoralization of silver and the rapid retirement of national bank notes has cramped the finances of the country. The people are comparatively moneyless, for the capitalists have hoarded the gold, and the people's money has been retired.

Congress will not, however, heed the voice of the Silver Convention. It would be too much to expect that the men who have grudgingly consented to the coinage of $2,000,000 in silver per month will suddenly agree that the mints shall be opened for the free coinage of the gray metal. Nor is it likely that Congress will command the Secretary of the Treasury to issue Government certificates based upon gold and silver in the Treasury vaults. It is feared that the Silver Convention demanded too much—not that the demands were not just, but because of the improbability that they can be secured.

Fitch was a long way off in his figures. The estimate of 8,000 millionaires was too low. Those fortunate fellows number 100,000 in the United States. It has been shown that the annual net income of those 100,000 exceeds by some $200,000,000 the savings of the 17,000,000 toilers of the country. The question has been asked, "How long will it take the millionaires to acquire all the wealth of the nation at that rate?" The answer will be easier when the creation of wealth by the opening of new territory for settlement ceases.

The Convention has done its part fairly well. Now we shall see what Congress will do.

The Omaha Bee says the action of the St. Louis Convention is likely to have an important influence upon Congress. So far as the administration is concerned, it continues to be reported from Washington that the President and Secretary of the Treasury will take a liberal attitude regarding silver. It is still said that the Secretary is favorably disposed to a policy of issuing certificates of deposit of bullion as a compromise between the advocates of an increased coinage and the outspoken opponents of coinage, but there is doubt as to whether the President can be induced to favor this plan. Senator Allison has been quoted as predicting that a free coinage bill will pass the Senate, and there is reason to believe that such a measure will have large support in the House.

When the recommendations of the Administration are known a safer judgment can be formed as to what Congress may do, but the probability is that present legislation will not go farther than to direct the Secretary of the Treasury to coin silver to the maximum amount allowed by the present law, four million dollars a month.

It appears from the report of the Secretary of War that the United States, Persia and China are about the only nations which still adhere to the single battalion infantry formation. China will soon be ahead of us as she is about to adopt German tactics. Really it is about time to adapt our military system, what there is of it, to the exigencies of modern warfare.

A boy is lying in Philadelphia with him body swollen to twice its natural size, the result of excessive cigarette smoking. This reverses the ordinary rule. The average cigarette fiend presents the appearance of having shrunk from the fair proportions of wholesome youth or manhood.

Of the two lepers found in San Francisco Wednesday by the Health Inspector, one has been working, until within a few days, in a local cigar factory. This is a pleasing reflection for smokers who are not particular about getting cigars of white manufacture.

There are 131 new members in the new House of Representatives. They will not be allowed to all speak at once.

As a measure of economy the railroads in the Southwest should appoint the road agents as receivers.

Secretary Blaine is under the weather but expects to be able to attend to business in a day or two.

It was the field against Reed but he got away with the entire bundle.

Dom Pedro is in London. The ex-Emperor says he is all right.

Adolph Sutro's Purchases.

Adolph Sutro, who has been traveling in Europe for several months, has returned to San Francisco. While abroad he purchased a number of books from the Perkins library, which was sold while he was in Europe, together with several thousand rare trees, shrubs and plants, which will be planted on Sutro Heights, at the San Miguel Nurseries and in Alameda county.

The San Francisco Alta chirps: Our San Francisco delegates to the silver convention made a gold-mistake when they marched in with a gold-fringed flag on a gilt pole, topped out with a gold eagle. It should have been a silver flag with an argentiferous grizzly, signifying their intention to bear the gold market.

The Austin Reveille thinks: Senator Stewart and F. G. Newlands left the State together for St. Louis to attend the National Silver Convention. These two political rivals have evidently joined forces.

ALKALI LANDS.

A bulletin issued by Professor E. W. Hilgard from the Agricultural Experiment Station at the University of California gives some valuable directions for the treatment of "alkali lands." Professor Hilgard points out that the alkali, so called, is an evidence of the peculiar richness of the soils in plant foods. The salts of potash and soda which make up the alkali of California are the products of the "weathering away" of the soil. But in most soils the soda salts are leached out by the rains and are carried by the rivers to the sea. In the San Joaquin and other parts of the State, says the Examiner, the rainfall is small and the drainage bad. The salts are not carried off as fast as they are produced. The soil is never leached out and the salts accumulate from year to year. The evaporation of the moisture from the ground leaves the salts held in solution as a deposit on the surface, causing the "rise of the alkali" on the lands during the dry season.

The remedy, as the University bulletin points out, follows from the cause. It is to be found by washing out the soils by irrigation and draining the water away from beneath into the rivers and to the sea.

How this is to be done is in most cases a question for local discussion. The object cannot be accomplished by merely putting water on the soil. Such an expedient has naturally failed, unless at the same time it is drained off from beneath. Otherwise the alkali has remained in the soil and has reappeared as a surface deposit, with the evaporation of the water that held it in solution. If the water is taken off by underdrainage, however, it is possible to leach out soils so that the alkali will not reappear for ages.

In many of the alkali districts of this State and in most of the alkali districts of California an effective system of underdrainage is beyond the means of individuals. To reclaim the lands co-operation will be necessary. The manner in which California is solving the irrigation problem suggests the method to be pursued in reclaiming alkali lands. Drainage districts may prove as effective as irrigation districts when once the true value of the alkali lands is seen.

The excellence of these soils so long thought worthless and given over to desolation is becoming appreciated little by little. Where water has been brought to them and accident or intelligent design has given an under-drainage that has carried off the soda salts their fertility has been wonderful. The immigrants who toiled across the alkali plains of Nevada and endured them as the regions of despair would be amazed at the sight of the crops grown where water has been brought to the desert. The day when a large part of these rich lands will be made productive is sure to come, and the men who have the intelligence and the enterprise to carry out the work will reap the first reward of it.

THE RAILROADS.

The Susanville Advocate says of a railroad north:

Telegraphic news informs us that the Union Pacific officials have fully determined on building through to the Pacific Coast, making Los Angeles the terminal city and Redondo the seaport town. It is authoritatively stated that a portion of the contract has already been let, and that the through line will be completed within two years.

We are pleased to learn that at last California is likely, in the near future, to be provided with a competitive line of railroad, yet we are somewhat disappointed in having it go so far southward from us. We have, for two or three years past, confidently believed that Lassen county would have an overland route across it before 1893, but we now fear that the time may be later—yet we still firmly believe the year is not far distant when our community will be blessed with such facilities. The configuration of the country is such that a standard gauge is sure to be built from the Oregon Short Line, near Boise City, Idaho, into the northern portion of the Sacramento valley, down Pit river through Big Valley to Redding, or across Madeline Plains above Eagle Lake, and about twenty miles northwesterly from Susanville, and on over the Sierras, either down Deer Creek to Chico or the north fork of Feather river to Oroville. Such a road, we say, is sure, sooner or later, to be built, and when it is our assessment roll will run rapidly up to the ten million dollar mark. It is not ten years ago that land around Reno could be bought for $10 an acre that is to-day worth seventy-five dollars, and what has caused it? Nature provided that locality with no better soil, climate, or timber, than is to be found in Lassen county. We do not think any one will claim the Comstock mines are to be credited with the growth of Reno, especially in the past dozen years. There is no denying that the railroad is chiefly the cause of it. The situation of Reno, at the base of the big range of mountains, makes it a natural center for traffic and travel to and fro. This in itself makes business.

Lassen county needs railroad communication with the outside world. The sooner we have it, the better for all concerned.

Over 2,000,000 acres of arid lands in Wyoming have been reclaimed and rendered fertile by irrigation. Over $10,000,000 have been invested in 3,200 ditches, with an aggregate length of 5,400 miles. Delegate Carey says the reclaimed region is larger than France and Spain combined, and equal to 30,000 eighty-acre farms. Fully 10,000,000 acres can be added to that area in Wyoming alone, if proper measures are taken to store the water supply. What private capital has done for Wyoming, it has also done for Colorado and other arid sections. Most of the un-reclaimed land belongs to the Government and is utterly worthless in its present condition. Private enterprise has demonstrated that irrigated land yields handsome returns on the investment. Why should not the Government follow the example on a larger scale and make the vast arid section of the public domain productive and salable? The question is one which Congress cannot long ignore.

An Exciting Explosion.

Special to the Journal.

Oil City, Pa., Nov. 30.—An explosion of nitro-glycerine occurred in the suburbs this afternoon. Two brothers named Fisher and Ed. Hoffman were killed. Five tons of glycerine, owned by the Torpedo Company, were being unloaded from a boat and placed in the magazine. It is supposed the boys in some manner caused the accident while the men were absent. The shock was a tremendous one. Farm houses near by were shattered and blown to pieces. An ice house building 300 feet square was reduced to kindling wood. The windows in the postoffice at the depot, two miles distant, were shattered by the shock.

The Cronin Defense.

Special to the Journal.

Chicago, Nov. 30.—In the Cronin case to-day Judge Longenecker finished his address for the State, and Judge Wing began his address on behalf of the defense. He referred to the vast amount of evidence produced in the case—all of it circumstantial—and explained the different light in which such evidence must be considered from that accorded to direct evidence. He dwelt upon the necessity that jurors should lay aside their natural prejudice against these men on account of their nationality and religion. The Court then adjourned until Monday.

A New and Novel Scheme.

Special to the Journal.

HELENA, Mont., Nov. 30.—In the State Mineral Land Convention to-day a resolution was adopted favoring the formation of a Mineral Land Association, whose capital stock should be $50,000, in one dollar shares. Two prominent mining men from each county are made incorporators. The object is the active prosecution of protests and contests against the Northern Pacific railway, and efforts to obtain patents to mineral land in Montana, also assisting by competent counsel all mines in Montana to obtain titles to mining lands. All of the stock was subscribed.

STANSON, Cal., Nov. 30.—This afternoon an Italian, whose name is unknown, induced Antonio Madruga, a Portuguese, to take a walk. When about half a mile from town the Italian deliberately fired two shots at Madruga, one taking effect in the back, the bullet lodging under the spine. The Italian fled. Officers are in pursuit of him. It is supposed robbery was the object of the shooting.

NO MEMBER OF THE MORMON CHURCH FIT TO BE A CITIZEN.

Judge Anderson Gives the Control of Salt Lake City to the Gentiles.

The Mormons Knocked Out.

SALT LAKE, Nov. 30.—Judge Anderson to-day delivered his decision in the matter of the application of Mormons who have taken the Endowment House oath for admission to citizenship. The decision reviews the testimony at length and denies the application.

Judge Anderson holds that the Mormon Church has always been a treasonable organization in its teachings, and practices hostility to the United States Government, seeking its overthrow; that the oath administered to its members in the Endowment House binds them, under penalty of death, to implicit obedience to the priesthood in all things, temporal as well as spiritual, and to avenge the death of the prophets, Joseph and Hiram Smith, upon the Government and people of the United States.

The decision says the evidence establishes beyond any reasonable doubt that the endowment ceremonies are inconsistent with the oath of citizenship, and the application of John Moore and Walter Edgar, is accordingly denied. As to the admission of the other applicants, on the ground they belonged to the Mormon Church only, the Judge says can be no question that the Church exercises the right to control its members in temporal as well as spiritual affairs, and the evidence also shows blood atonement as one of the doctrines of the Church. This evidence, the court holds, does not sustain the claim of counsel that the feelings of the Mormon people toward the Government have undergone any change and that in latter years the feeling of hostility has disappeared or become greatly modified.

The evidence shows the Church has, in a most determined manner, opposed the enforcement of the laws of the United States against polygamy.

The Judge concludes by saying it has always been the policy of this Government to encourage aliens who came in good faith to reside in this country to become citizens, but when a man of foreign birth comes here and joins an organization which requires of him allegiance paramount to his allegiance to the Government it is time for the Courts to inquire whether such a man should be admitted to citizenship. The evidence in this case shows unquestionably that the teachings, practices and purposes of the Mormon Church are antagonistic to the Government of the United States, and that its members are animated by a feeling of hostility to the Government and its laws. Therefore an alien who is a member of said Church is not fit to be a citizen of the United States.

MRS. PARNELL SPEAKS.

Her Language Bitter Against Irish Leaders in America.

TANTON, N. J., Nov. 28.—When the Irish National League leader, Fitzgerald, took to himself to deny the story of Mrs. Delia Parnell's destitution without either making a personal investigation or through one of his many agents he struck a snag. James Slavin, the Irish patriot in charge of the Parnell estate, said: "Fitzgerald is one of those Irishmen who thinks he holds a Nation in the palm of his hand. He is jealous because Mrs. Parnell's friends appealed to the people and because he could not handle the money. The big 'I am' wants to prevent others from doing a good deed by carrying something he knows nothing about. He is a blatherskite and everybody knows it."

Mrs. D. I. Parnell dictated the following to a reporter:

"I received some assistance from my appeal until Mr. Fitzgerald, of the National League, took it upon himself to deny the story told by my friends without he, or any of his agents, making an investigation of the facts. He said in substance, the League would take care of me had I made an appeal to them. My poverty dates back to 1879. I was destitute then, and prominent members of the League were so informed. They took no action, but gave me the lie. James Redpath, of New York, took up my case, but when prominent leaders of the League gave me the lie, he too abandoned the idea of raising a fund quietly from a few wealthy members of the League. Later he endeavored to sell some of my writings, but the market was overstocked. In 1885 and 1886, when I was ill in New York, the League members again knew of my condition, but no action was taken. Miss Ellen Ford, daughter of Patrick Ford, Mrs. Kate Deggs, Mrs. Condon, Mrs. Kehoe, Miss Maria Doherty and others raised between $1,700 and $1,900, but most of it went for expenses. The property my brothers left me, which has been considered a fortune, did not pay one cent of interest. I have kept matters from the public until I have stared starvation in the face. When I would appeal to prominent members of the League I would be told my son, Charles, had sufficient means to help me. This is false. Charles Stewart Parnell has not one dollar of his own in the world. What money he had has been contributed for the cause of Ireland and he has no right to use it for my support. True, he gave up his private fortune for the cause, and when my boy entered Irish politics I gave up my dowry to aid him and Ireland; but what is that if he wins Home Rule for the Nation?"

She spoke of the injustice being done her just now by the National League leaders and said she would curse the day she ever married a Parnell if that was to be used against her now.

THE JESSUP CASE.

The California Supreme Court Reverses the Superior Court.

Special to the Journal.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—The Supreme Court to-day reversed the decision of the Superior Court in the Jessup case. Geisbora P. Jessup died three years ago, leaving an estate valued at $100,000, which he bequeathed to a brother and two sisters. Richard P. Jessup filed a petition claiming to be the illegitimate son of the deceased, and after a trial which attracted considerable attention the Superior Court decided the case in his favor and ordered that the entire estate be given to the young man. The Supreme Court afterwards affirmed this decision, two of the Justices dissenting. A rehearing of the case was subsequently granted, and the decision on the rehearing was given to-day. The Supreme Court now finds that the elder Jessup never publicly acknowledged Richard P. Jessup as his son or treated him as if he were a legitimate child. Three Justices dissent.

Lieutenant Governor Bell.

Governor Stevenson yesterday appointed Frank Bell, of Reno, Lieutenant Governor vice Chubbuck, resigned. The Governor might have found a better man. Mr. Bell is a man of unimpeachable integrity and of a high moral character. He will fill the position with credit to the Governor and the people.

THE MODEL CLASS.

The Closing Exercises of the State Teachers' Institute.

The Virginia Enterprise gives the annexed account of the closing exercises Friday afternoon:

The school room was full when the afternoon session began with a lesson on vocal music by Mrs. E. C. Storey, Gold Hill, in which she introduced work by the class. Miss Tupper then conducted exercises by the third-year normal class of the State University. She gave the course of study in addition to the academic course. It was explained that each young lady was to give simply what she had given before in school. Nothing was especially prepared and the programme only showed the daily work. This programme was one of the most interesting features of the institute.

The several members of the class illustrated the method of teaching various branches, and a number of features of the present system are curious to those who went to school before the war. It was almost a pity that Major Buffaker was not there to hear the character sketch of little Paul Dombey. Dickens' description of the mental jamming at the school to which Paul was sent would have given him a chance to smile triumphantly at the advocates of home education. It is understood that he will speak this afternoon and tell his side of the question, and we might read a page from "Dombey and Son" as an appropriate introduction.

Methods of teaching reading were very ably illustrated by Miss Mattie Snow, who put the class through a variety of exercises, the most striking of which was the whispering.

There was a time when whispering in school was a punishable offense. Now it is actually taught as a means of acquiring a correct pronunciation of the consonant sounds. Of course the whisper must be whispered at the proper time and under the direction of the teacher, but it is hard for old people to realize that the world has changed. What was once the typical school-house misdeed is now actually taught. If Edward Bellamy had written "Looking Backward" 30 years ago, and had included a description of this feature of education in 1900, his startling improbability would have appeared almost as a whole theory and there would have been no Nationalist party started.

The calisthenics were very interesting, and the class of young ladies made a very graceful appearance. The story by signs was very attractively told by the eloquent mouth of the class. It was concluded, however, by many as yet unmentioned to language without words that they at first thought the girls saw a strange woman with a new-fangled bonnet. Finding from subsequent gestures that this was an error they were unable to catch up the thread of the tale in time to fully appreciate its interest, but they saw that it ended well, and enjoyed it greatly, even if they could not repeat it to their friends.

The entire programme of the normal class was full of interest, not to teachers only, but to all who measure the progress of the world by the progress in educational methods. It might be proper to observe in passing that the State University is making some very good teachers for the children of Nevada, and if it did nothing else could not be considered a useless property. The normal class was followed by an instrumental solo by Miss Eva Quaffs, of the School for Girls. Miss Quaffs is one of the most accomplished musicians in the State, and her performance was thoroughly enjoyed by those who appreciate the perfection of art.

Prof. Devol, of the State University, read a paper on the origin and benefits of agricultural stations, and dwell at length upon the advantages that the world derives from a scientific knowledge of farming. This most important branch of education is conducted in connection with the University—the Agricultural Station having been located there—and Mr. Devol brought into clear view the advantages to the State that will accrue in time from an application of science to the tillage of our land. He is evidently fully impressed with the vast importance of the science that teaches how to make two blades of grass grow where but one grew before, and made excellent use of the ample field of reminiscence and discussion that his subject affords.

There are many yet living who can remember when the scientific farmer was an object of derision to the hard-handed old toilers who put in their crops by the light of the moon, and who pointed to the pecuniary losses of the advance guard of exact methods of agriculture as justification for their ridicule. That day has happily for the hungry people of the world, long since passed. The pioneers in the experiment sowed their seed on a soil in which it firmly rooted, and though they, through imperfect knowledge sometimes made unprofitable experiments their money was like bread cast upon the waters; and farming, with a knowledge of the reason why, is now recognized as the art of arts practical. It might seem to our young people that the miner's drill is a more effective implement to use in a money market than the grain drill, but they will learn that the minor who digs for gold depends for his living upon the farmer who digs for potatoes.

A CONFEDERATE NOTE

Redeemed at Par Value at a Virginia Fair Bank.

The Virginia Chronicle reports this: On Thanksgiving Day a stranger visited a local fair bank and passing a $20 bill to the dealer received a cup representing that amount in change. The stranger won $80 and redeemed the bank note. He returned some time afterward and again passed in the same $20 bank bill and won $87 but did not take the bill in part payment as on his first visit, telling the dealer he preferred coin. After the stranger's departure it was ascertained that the bank note was Confederate paper of the vintage 1863. The fair dealer who accepted the Confederate note is still looking for the stranger from whom he received it, with a slim prospect of success in the search.

The gloomy visages of the attaches of the fair game who to the incident related in the occurred, would have looked more appropriate in a funeral procession than at a Thanksgiving festival.

DAM BUILDING UP NORTH.

The Water Supply Question Being Solved by Our Northern Neighbors.

The Susanville Mail, in its last issue, gives the following news regarding the good work being done by land owners in Lassen county, Cal.:

The leading question here is, where shall we get water for irrigating purposes? The most feasible mode appears to be the building of storage reservoirs to store the surplus waste water during the wet season. Adopting this solution as the proper way, almost every land owner in Lassen county has either located or are interested in the location of reservoir sites, of which there are hundreds of admirable ones, and are vying with each other in erecting the strongest works, and building the largest dams. A number of large reservoirs have been completed and many are now in the course of construction. Of the latter class is the one being built across Ball's canyon, by E. R. Dodge & Co.

A mail representative happened to be in that vicinity one day last week, and was surprised to see the extensive work at that place. The dam is being built across the canyon at a point where it narrows to about three hundred feet. The dam when completed will be about forty feet high. Mr. Harrison, who is superintending the construction of the dam, says that it will be finished before Spring, no matter what the weather may be, the work will be continued. The work is now more than half completed.

Some might ask where will the water come from to fill such a large basin. Ball's canyon carries away all the surplus water from Secret valley, and all the vast watershed surrounding makes it practically one of the best sources of water supply that we know of, and we have heard it said repeatedly that it frequently carries sufficient water to fill such a reservoir in twenty-four hours, so there will be no trouble from that source.

The large storage reservoir at McCoy Flat, built by Hutchinson & Leavitt, is completed. It is 650 feet in length, 18 feet high and 50 feet in width at the base. It has a heavy rock wall ten feet in width on the lower side and a portion of the upper side is faced with rock. There are two 22-inch pipes, 60 feet long, passing through the dam to tap the reservoir. Del Arnold, who put in the gates, had to wait several days because of the water raising so rapidly. After the gates were in the water raised several feet above them in one day. In building this dam the loose rock was removed from the bottom across the stream a width of ten feet, coming to solid clay. From this a clay puddle wall was built up in the center of the dam. The dam lies in between rocky banks and was built with a broad base so that it may be raised ten feet in the future. It retains the water in a large natural basin of irregular form covering more than 1,500 acres. The outlet for surplus water, after filling the reservoir, is at a natural depression in the surrounding ridge. It is believed by the men who erected the dam that it is complete in every particular and absolutely safe. This dam is on Susan river, just below where Bridge creek empties into it. It is twenty miles west of Susanville with a vast mountainous timbered watershed above it. Water from this reservoir will flow down the natural channel of Susan river to the valley and be taken out in irrigating canals. These reservoirs are built to retain the surplus waste water for irrigating purposes during the dry season.

Good Scheme.

The Greenville Bulletin says:

George Doherty, who was in town yesterday, informed us that himself, S. C. Banta, J. W. Thompson and others have taken the initiative steps for putting a bulkhead in Indian Creek, and cutting a ditch to convey water to the farm, which is interested, for irrigating purposes. The main ditch will extend across the ranch now owned by J. W. Thompson, and to that of George Doherty. For some months the latter has been talking up the matter.

Northern Nevada.

The Silver State says:

Henry Simpson, one of Colonel Harden's foremen, is in town. He says there was six inches of snow at Mitchell on the Owyhee a few days ago, and it had melted heavily for two days before the snow fell. In the Ball Run mountains the snow is over four feet deep, and in the Willow Creek range, in this county, there was quite a heavy snow fall.

Bad Reno.

This is from the Enterprise:

The social amenities would appear to be a little out of gear at Reno, when wives and their lovers are seen flying through the streets yelling bloody murder, withirate husbands flourishing cleavers and mountain howlers in what Corly Bell was wont to call "the proximate vicinage."

A Day Ahead.

The Tuscarora Times-Review says:

Since the change in the time-table on the Central Pacific, the latest press telegraphic news reaches Tuscarora in the Reno Journal, a day ahead of any other paper. The Journal reaches here on the day following that of its publication.

A Bad Game of Cards.

Special to the Journal.

HEPNER, Or., Nov. 30.—At Lexington last night Edward Jones, the son of respectable people of this town, left his wife at a social dance and repaired to a neighboring saloon to indulge in a game of cards. He had an altercation with the dealer, Hiram Harper, about cashing checks, and returned to the ball room for his brother, Newton Jones, and several other young men. The Jones boys then proceeded to administer a beating to Harper. The latter escaped, with blood trickling down his face, and warned them to come up further. The party again attacked him, when he drew a revolver and fired three shots, killing Edward Jones and narrowly missing Newton. The latter knocked Harper down, but he managed to escape, only to be arrested later. The affair has created great excitement.

WHAT ON EARTH

Is the reason people will not, can act or do not see any difference in cheap nostrums put up by cheap John houses or irresponsible parties at enormous profits, rather than take a medicine of world wide reputation and one that is giving universal satisfaction at "real price"? No modern universal satisfaction at "real price"? No modern satisfaction for purifying the blood as BFGG'S BLOOD PURIFIER. Ask Dr. GOOD'S MAKER, and every bottle that does not do its work will cost you nothing.

Be Sure

If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar remedy, possessing, by virtue of its peculiar combination, proportion, and preparation, curative power superior to any other article. A Boston lady who knew what she wanted, and whose example is worthy imitation, tells her experience below:

To Get

"In one store where I went to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla the clerk tried to induce me to buy their own instead of Hood's; he told me their's would last longer; that I might take it on ten days' trial; that if I did not like it I need not pay anything, etc. But he could not prevail on me to change. I told him I knew what Hood's Sarsaparilla was. I had taken it, was satisfied with it, and did not want any other."

Hood's

When I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was feeling real miserable, suffering a great deal with dyspepsia, and so weak that at times I could hardly stand. I looked, and had for some time, like a person in consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me so much good that I wonder at myself sometimes, and my friends frequently speak of it. Mrs. ELLA A. GORR, of Terrace Street, Boston.

New buildings are occupied as fast as erected. Reno has advantages which no other town can equal. The climate is mild and genial in Winter, and even and healthful in Summer. There are no excessively heated or severely cold terms, and while the days may be warm in Summer the nights are deliciously cool; in Winter sleigh-riding is the exception and not the rule.

Facilities for irrigating surpass any in the State and there is no failure of crops. Reno has Churches of all denominations, Bishop Whitaker's School for Girls, Mt. St. Mary's Academy, the State University, and splendid Public Schools.

Reno's geographical position is excellent. It is on the line of the Central Pacific Railroad, only 154 miles from Sacramento, and 244 miles from San Francisco. It is the terminus of the Virginia and Truckee Railroad running south, and of the Nevada and California Railroad running north. It has two Flouring Mills, Planing Mills, three Nurseries, a Soap Factory, Reduction Works, and other industries. A great Woolen Mill and a Sash, Door, Blind and Box Factory, are about to be established.

Reno has the Bank of Nevada with $300,000 capital, and the First National Bank with $200,000 capital. It has two fine papers in the DAILY and WEEKLY NEVADA STATE JOURNAL and the Daily and Weekly Gazette.

Reno is the natural home of the Alfalfa, and therefore the great cattle headquarters of the State. Here are fed the prime beef for the California market. This Township lies on the eastern slope of the Coast Range of mountains, and from 13 to 20 miles west from Red Bluff, the county seat of Tehama County. The field notes of the U. S. Surveyor who has located this township, says "This township is well adapted for grazing, as it affords pasturage for large herds of cattle. It is well watered by the various tributaries of Elder Creek. It is also very valuable for its timber, which consists of a heavy growth of yellow and sugar pine, spruce, and cedar. There is a heavy undergrowth of brush, and a few small trees. The even sections are most valuable as government land, as they are most valuable as adjacent to this range might easily be secured at government price, namely, $20 per acre for single quarter sections.

In Section 9, coal was discovered recently by some herders, but nothing has been done to develop the mine, although samples which have been tested show the coal to be of excellent quality.

We are assured that a Railroad heading for the Coast, and running through the Coast Range, will be built very near the line of this range. The price for the whole, consisting of 10,378 27-100 acres will be $350,000.
